MICROBIAL STATEMENT

ICL Performance Products does not conduct any type of microbiological testing. The raw materials used for the production of phosphates, by their nature, and the chemical reactions and processing conditions involved in converting these raw materials to end products are such as to preclude the carry or support of microbiological flora. Since some microbiological species may be airborne, some organisms conceivably could enter a container during the packing procedure and possibly during the transport, storage or use handling procedures. Since many of these factors are out of our control and we do not perform the microbiological testing, we cannot guarantee total microbial freedom.
